

Disposable Financial Tools with payment process, web card that doesn't reveal the account number in Internet transaction and a potable remote apparatus carrying check book/ check & card/credit card number.

Abstract of the Disclosure:

Disposable Financial Tools (DFT) with a central number (Primary number/Queen number) and a secondary number (Drone/exit, check number). When used in transaction, The Drone number is automatically altered or lock from the IEI network and or banking system after gaining access, process and approved, prevent DFT with the same exit number from gaining access to the network and or banking system again. Sleek Check (Midget Check) none-deposit electronic check with its banking information hidden under magnetic strip. Information reveals when check is scanned or swipe. Payer signature is electronically stored on issuer electronic check image after transaction process and approved. IEICard, an Internet payment card that does not reveal end user account number during web transaction. Gift card pre-issued system, allowed accountholder, to write receptions name and amount on the cards at anytime. potable remote apparatus carrying check and credit card numbers.

2/01/06

Patent & Trade mark Office
Art Unit # 2876 – Stephen Paik
P. O. box 1450
Alexandria, VA 22313-1450

Lee Blackman
601 Park PL
Brooklyn, NY 11238

Please accept the amendment to the claims and added claims.

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Lee Blackman", is written over a horizontal line.

Lee Blackman